Location: Kpalimé, Togo

#ESP19Africa

Call for sessions deadline
15 September 2018

The ESP Africa conference is organised to draw attention to the key role ecosystems are playing in the development of the economy, human wellbeing and culture in (Sub-Saharan) Africa. In spite of all the benefits of ecosystem services (or Nature's Contributions to People) the ecosystems providing them are facing many threats affecting the livelihoods and resilience of local communities. Therefore, the theme of the conference is 'Management of Ecosystem Services for Nature Conservation and Human Wellbeing in Africa'. The conference welcomes everyone with an interest in the conservation, restoration and sustainable management of 'Nature's Contributions to People' in Africa and its association with human wellbeing.
